Stranger Sees Flames; Serious Fire Prevented

POINT PLEASANT, March 24 — Because a stranger riding by in a car saw the flames in the barroom and notified the proprietor, Jack Goddel, a serious fire was prevented in the Central Hotel, here, about 9:30 Sunday evening.

Chief of the Point Pleasant Fire Company, Thomas Anderson, said the fire was caused by a short circuit in the electric bottle cooler.

A motorist, whose identity was not learned, saw the red glare and flames in the barroom while driving by the hotel. Central Hotel is located next door to the fire house which is located along River rd.

Chief Anderson estimated that the damage amounted to $500.

The Goddel family was in another part of the hotel watching television while the fire was in the barroom.

For the Point Pleasant firemen it was the first fire since Nov. 6, 1952.

"That is the longest stretch we have ever gone without a fire," said Chief Anderson who explained that slightly more than four months without having to fight a fire for the Point Pleasant Fire Company is establishing a record.

"The alertness of that motorist certainly saved the village from having a serious fire because in several more minutes it would have been much more difficult to control," Chief Anderson said.

Seven Candidates Withdraw Names From Primary List

By Staff Reporter

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 24 — Voters in Bucks county will face a bewildering array of candidates names on the primary ballots when they cast their vote for their choice in the May 19 primary election. A total of 1070 filed with the county Board of Elections as candidates in the primary, according to Harold S. Hellyer, clerk of the elections board.

Even though the field appears somewhat crowded at this point, withdrawals reduced the number to 1063 candidates whose petitions had been accepted at the county office.

Petitions of candidates for offices of election officials of District No. 2 and No. 3 of Falls township were disposed of, because the split of the original district in the township has not yet been approved by Quarter Sessions Court. The split has been approved by the county commissioners and court approval is expected in about 10 days. Primary

TB NO LONGER IS THE "GREAT WHITE PLAGUE" THAT DWARFED OTHER KILLERS LESS THAN CENTURY AGO

Thirteen months ago, the headlines told of what seemed to be a "miracle" cure for tuberculosis. Even dully-cautious doctors were enthusiastic. Patients in one big TB hospital danced through the wards.

Is tuberculosis really conquered—or is it still an ever-present menace to your health? Has the "miracle" matched its early promise? The following article, first of three, tells the story of TB today and the outlook for the future.

By John Geiger
(I. N. S. Science Writer)
NEW YORK, Mar. 24 — (INS) — Medical science started to conquer tuberculosis 71 years ago today, on March 24, 1882—but the battle isn't over yet.

TB no longer is the "great white plague" that dwarfed all other killers less than a century ago. But doctors, chest specialists and public health officials are worried about it.

Paradoxically, they're more worried now than they were a year ago, before the two TB-fighting "wonder drugs," isoniazid and iproniazid, were reported to an enthusiastic world.

They fear—and with some reason—that tuberculosis is more of a threat to you now than ever, because over-optimistic reports of a "cure" have slowed efforts to wipe it out completely.

Here, as the TB experts report it, is the truth:

If you contracted tuberculosis today—and across the United States 343 people do, every day—doctors could spot it quickly and accurately, provided you gave them the chance.

They could use any of a half-dozen good weapons against the tuberculosis bacillus, the tough, ancient germ that causes the disease.

On the evidence of thousands of cases, however, they can't guarantee a cure. No one drug—not even isoniazid—would be likely to do the job alone.

A combination of drugs might—if the TB were spotted early, if you agreed to long-term treatment and if the germs did not develop resistance to the drugs.

The personal price of a cure probably would be ten months or more in a hospital—much of it in bed—away from home, job and family.

The economic cost is just as high. The man who contracts TB today will require about $14,000 for hospitalization, treatment and other benefits before March 24, 1954. Because most TB is treated in public institutions, his illness uses up

Borough Council Votes to Give Water In Few Cases

New Well Expected To Be Put Into Service in About Two Weeks

Informed by legal advisers that the borough has no choice but to grant water to persons living along its existing mains, and that it is legally bound to carry out promises made in the past to furnish water connections, borough council last night voted 10 to 5 to ease its present restrictions against further water connections in the township.

This matter was one of two items contained in the call for a special session, the other being the vacancy in the tax collector's office caused by the death of the incumbent, William H. H. Fine.

President of Council, Francis J. Byers, in explaining the reason for the call, said that a resolution passed last January banning any further water connections in the township, until additional water supply has been found, ought to be rescinded or amended to help out individual homes and small builders.

John Fullam, borough solicitor, said that with respect to existing mains, it is improper for the borough to decline to connect, and that this is the case also where there have been agreements with contractors prior to the date of the January resolution.

Councilman Edward J. Riley brought out that only houses directly alongside the mains would be affected, and that the proposed resolution could not be used to force extensions to the main.

TREVOSE HEIGHTS SQUAD

Trevose Heights Rescue Squad reports the transportation yesterday of Anna Clemens of Oakford, to Abington Hospital for treatment of a sprained ankle, and return to her home.

Bristol Borough council last night, unanimously elected Mrs. Marie Minster Fine, widow of the late William H. H. Fine, to serve out the balance of the term of her husband as borough tax collector. The term expires at the end of this year.

President of Council Francis J. Byers, in calling the special session, to order, said:

"The reason we acted quickly in this matter is that this is a very critical time. The duplicate must be figured, bills printed and sent out, the books made up, and the tax bills in the mail by May 1.

"I understand that Mrs. Fine is amenable to act as tax collector for the balance of the year. There was a gentleman spoken to—he didn't seek the position. We had prevailed upon Mr. Ferry (Councilman Joseph Ferry of the sixth ward, who is the democratic candidate for the primary election) to take the position if Mrs. Fine did not agree to do so.

"When he learned today that Mrs. Fine had agreed, he advised us that under no circumstances would he accept the position, and he wants his name withdrawn. Any help he can give Mrs. Fine he announced he is glad to offer."

Burgess I. J. Hetherington, Sr., said that he wanted to congratulate Mr. Ferry for this decision, and said that the selection of Mrs. Fine was an action which would never be regretted.

The name of Mrs. Fine then was presented by Councilman Edward J. Riley of the fifth ward, and second by William H. Pearson of the sixth ward.

Residents Organize To Oppose River Deepening

EDGEWATER PARK, N. J., Mar. 24 — Opposition to the deepening of the Delaware river was organized here last night, when 30 residents of the area met at the Red Dragon Canoe club.

After organization, the group, which adopted the title, "The Delaware River Valley Association," passed a formal resolution which claimed that the deepening of the present 25-foot-deep channel to 40 feet would benefit only the new Fairless Works of United States Steel, and that the project would represent "an unwarranted use of the taxpayers' money."

The group claimed that when the new plant first was constructed the company knew it could operate without a deeper channel. The resolution alleged that should the channel not be dredged, the steel plant could operate at only "slightly more transportation cost" by rail or normal water carrier.

The group also claimed that industrial engineers have said dredging the channel would damage sewer facilities, sea-walls, piers, foundations and other structures.

Plans were announced to send copies of the resolution to governors of both New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and to "senators, congressmen and freeholders," in both states.

Officers elected at the session include: Mayor George Becton of Riverton, president, Charles Bidle of Andalusia, Pa., vice president; Miss Grace Russell of Edgewater Park, secretary, and Elliott Krusen of Delanco, treasurer.

Directors named were Dr. Harold Winkelspecht of Delanco, Raymond Sutphin of Florence, and Otto Grupp and Frank Ehlenfeldt of Eddington, Pa.

LOST AND FOUND

Apocryphal stories told and retold of the teen-age government buildings in wartime—remember the one about the Air Force second lieutenant who reported to the Pentagon for a one-day assignment and staggered out eight months later a bird colonel?—apparently have their true counterparts.

A news story now recounts the saga of the State Department employee who "lost" his way reporting for work in 1950, and was "found" again only last year. Apparently this fellow had succeeded in getting on the payroll as an information specialist (government jargon for press agent) and never did show up in the bureau to which he was assigned.

Nevertheless, he was on the payroll for two full years until some unknown hero in the administrative branch at the State Department discovered the howler. Even then the man stayed on, on a part-time basis, and according to testimony submitted to Senator McCarthy's Investigations subcommittee, used his old office to write a book. He was permanently removed a few days ago.

Unless he comes up with a new gimmick, that is. Don't be surprised to read that the government has been forced to take him back because he has civil service "rights," or something.

VICTIMS OF PROPAGANDA

Many Americans felt a strong twinge of disbelief when they read that the announcement of Stalin's death cast a pall of sadness over Russia. And it does seem incredible that any people should grieve for a man who will go down in history as one of the bloodiest despots of all time.

Russians who weep for Stalin are creatures of environment and propaganda. For nearly 30 years his name and face have been familiar to them, and for half of that period he has been represented as a superhuman being. He has been "The Great Stalin" and as such he has been endowed with a genius for countless pursuits, a wisdom few mortals even attain, and all the human qualities that good men cherish.

The Russian nature is peculiarly open to the suggestion that a ruler is the father of his people. Then, too, the dark side of the picture has been systematically obscured. Americans can read how Stalin schemed his way to power, how he disposed of his rivals, how in time he purged the party of most of his old comrades of the revolution. How, meanwhile, the party under his leadership liquidated the peasants by a ruthless program that took literally millions of lives.

But that is not the story that Russians—who have access to no newspapers except government produced communist propaganda sheets—read. Stalin had the story rewritten with himself as the hero.

Mrs. Fine knows about the work through her husband," he continued, and paid a tribute to Mrs. Frank Jenks, who has been Mr. Fine's assistant in the tax office, and who is expected to continue in that capacity under Mrs. Fine. "She is extremely well qualified," he said, "and has done a very fine job keeping these records."

Mr. Forster said he had contacted most of the members of the School Board; and that they had expressed themselves as well pleased with the idea of naming Mrs. Fine and that the school board could be expected to join with the borough in appointing her to fill the vacancy.

Borough Solicitor John Fullam called to the attention of council that it would be necessary to fix the amount of the bond and the rate of compensation for the tax collector. The amount of the bond will be determined as soon as the duplicate has been figured. The rate of commission was fixed at 2 percent of the collections up to the penalty period, and 5 percent thereafter.

Addressing Councilman Ferry, President Byers said: "Inasmuch as practically every member of council was ready to ask you to act as tax collector, we want to thank you for generously withdrawing."

Councilman Ferry said that he wanted to thank the council membership for their trust and confidence.

Mr. Byers then asked with a smile:

"I assume you will continue to be a candidate for the office?" Mr. Ferry replied: "Oh yes. I'm shooting for the jackpot."

LOST LICENSE A YEAR AGO

WASHINGTON, N. J., Mar. 24—(INS)—John Scarantino, 21, of Scranton, Pa., driver of the tractor-trailer which killed a family of 10 last Friday night, was disclosed today to have lost his driving privileges in New Jersey a year ago. State motor vehicle director William J. Dearden said Scarantino's license was automatically revoked when the truck driver failed to answer a summons for passing on a curve. State police said Scarantino was passing a coal truck when his tractor-trailer collided with an oncoming automobile in which 10 members of one family were killed last week on a highway near Washington. Scarantino is being held in Warren county jail in default of $5000 bail.

Poor Little Hill!

You're looking at a very discouraged hill!

Ever since that ribbon of paving outlined it, it has been a challenge to motor cars.

For miles and miles it winds up the side of a mountain; and it has sharp curves, and steep grades that spring out of the curves so a driver can't get a start.

Half-way up, there's a watering place—put there so drivers can stop and refill their radiators.

Yes—it has been quite a hill. But not any more! The driver of the car in the picture above took off at the base and sailed right up to the top—and never gave it a thought.

You see, he's driving a 1953 Cadillac—with its great high compression 210-horsepower engine—and its vastly improved Hydra-Matic Drive.

We heard recently of two men who drove from Florida to Detroit—in a 1953 Cadillac.

The driver had made this trip before—and as they left Knoxville he said to his passenger: "Man, are we going to find a hill between here and Lexington!"

After an hour or so, the passenger said: "Where is the hill?"

And the driver said: "Just wait!"

So they waited—and presently they saw a sign which read: "Lexington."

The driver was dumbfounded.

"I can't understand it!" he said. "There used to be a hill there—a big one! I know from experience."

Naturally, this great car gives you more than the ability to master hills.

When you float along with a tremendous reserve like this, you have the easiest ride imaginable.

It gives you confidence, too—and helps you to relax—for you know you have the power for any emergency that may arise.

It makes the whole car a symphony in motion. In fact, the ride is so smooth and soothing that, not infrequently, passengers sleep as they ride.

Come in and try it for yourself. The car is waiting—and it's an experience you ought not to forego.

each other much better—it lends to a community spirit in the parks," she added.

Mrs. Patterson commended the work done by the FSA, and the efforts of its director Kent Larabee. According to Larabee, Mrs. Alice Pickett and Mrs. Marion Hazard, members of the friendly visitors program of the American Friends Society did much to foster the formation of the club.

Larabee who directs much of the activity of the group at their meetings at the Center said it was early in the life of the FSA when the discovery was made that "the people in the trailer parks were hungry for community organization and community service."

Mrs. Patterson, the woman's club leader said that she has been living in trailers for the past 10 years. She started out, she said, in a home-made trailer costing about $150, and now has a most modern kind of trailer home.

The organization the woman have formed is "one of the very few" of its kind that she has seen in parks in many parts of the country. She said that the desire to keep her family together while relocating as new jobs beckon is the main reason for her choice of a trailer life.

Up to now the group has participated in the FSA programs of arts and crafts, handicrafts, painting, first aid, child development, sewing classes. Mrs. Patterson said the group would welcome any new members to their meetings.

Borough Council Votes

asked President Byers: "Have we found more water?"

Mr. Byers said "no."
Councilman Alta then asked how many individuals would be involved by the resolution, and was told by Mr. Byers that this was not definite. He said he knew of one case where several persons were promised a year ago that they would get the water connections, and estimated the total number as being about ten. He also said:

"I do believe that within sixty days we will have plenty of water."
Mr. Alta asked why it would not be a good idea to wait to act on the resolution when the borough actually had the water?

Mr. Fullam observed that the borough "hasn't any defense" in some of these cases.

Mr. Alta then suggested that the council act on the specific cases in question, and stay away from the general resolution.

Councilman Nicholas Pascale asked Borough Engineer Livingston Joyce when the new No. 6 well would come in.

Mr. Joyce said that he hoped to put the pump in tomorrow, and that the well might be in operation within two weeks. The gallowage was estimated at 200,000 a day.

Councilman John S. Lynn raised the question of whether the pumps at the main station were not shut down several hours a day, thus indicating a surplus, and was reminded that this is a time of the year when water usage is far below the peak demand.

Councilman Michael Spinelli protested over what he considered inadequate consideration to the possibilities of selling water:

"Why do we kick this water proposition around day after day? It ought to be a paying proposition."

On the Alta motion to restrict the question to the short list of connections, where the borough already was committed, the motion lost on a raising of hands by 15 to 3.

On motion of Councilman Pascale, the resolution as recommended by Mr. Fullam then was submitted to a vote. It carried 10 to 5, the dissenters being Councilmen Alta, Riley, Gosline, Pearson and Pollock.

A new chapel was dedicated at Girard College, Phila., Mar. 20, 1953.

Colorful S. American Ports Visited by Bristol Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Spring, 800 Radcliffe street, have returned from a 39 days cruise of 12,000 miles on the luxury liner "The Nieuw-Amsterdam."

They visited 10 colorful ports of the West Indies and South America, including Havana, Trinidad, Curacao, Bahia, Santos, Sao Paulo, Rio de Janeiro, Petropolis, Montevideo and Buenos Aires.

While in Montevideo, Mr. and Mrs. Spring visited Harold Kring, a former resident of Bristol, and Mrs. Kring.

During their stay in Buenos Aires, Argentina, President Peron returned from Chile where he had made his famous peace pact with Chile, and the Bristol residents witnessed from the Plaza Hotel where they were staying, the demonstration in the square, also the parade.

At each port the gorgeous botanical gardens were visited. In Rio Mr. and Mrs. Spring made the trip by cable car to Sugar Loaf mountain; also journeyed up Mt. Corcovado.

Today's Quiet Moment

By William E. Hakes
Pastor
First Baptist Church

Jesus said, "I am the resurrection and the life" (John 11:25). We are always dealing with, looking at, or contemplating death. We must acknowledge that each day we are a step closer to the grave. Unless you have One who has power over death and Hell and the grave. The Christian has such a person in the Lord Jesus. In an hour of sorrow and death, Jesus said to a broken-hearted loved one, "I am the resurrection and the life." She had thought in vague terms of an after-life. She had believed in a life in the body being raised after death. Jesus here asserts that He is the power by which men shall live again. And all shall live again. According to God's Word, all shall come out of the grave. Believers in the Lord Jesus shall go to be with Him forever. This is Heaven. Those who have no room, no place, no time for the Son of God shall be raised in the second resurrection to face eternal separation from Jesus. Never to see Him, never to be pardoned, never to be freed from the shackles of their sin. This is Hell. What will you do with Jesus Christ, and your soul's salvation?

Hotel Chef Supervises His Wife's Meals, Too

Curt Von Hoenigsberg Has Pleased the Palates of Celebrities

LEVITTOWN, Mar. 24 — Who cooks for the family of a master chef? Mrs. Kurt (Miriam) Von Hoenigsberg, of 47 Blue Spruce lane, prepares dinner at home under the supervision of her husband, who learned the culinary arts in Europe and is now chef for the Robert Morris Hotel, Morrisville.

Mr. Von Hoenigsberg was born in Frankfurt, Germany, and grew up in Holland. Learning the cuisine, he studied medicine at the University of Heidelberg, and came to the United States shortly before World War II.

Since coming here he has been head chef at several large restaurants, including Antony's in Phila., where his dishes won him the admiration of several notable show people.

The master chef has been a television star himself, demonstrating the preparation of tasty dishes on Ernie Kovacs' Mixing Bowl show. Mr. Von Hoenigsberg is a friend of radio emcee and singer Bud Brees, and has appeared several times on Bree's WPEN program.

The continental chef today has a large collection of autographed pictures presented to him by celebrities who enjoyed his bill of fare in Phila.

These included Johnnie Ray, Patti Page, Buddy Baer, James

Cagney, Ilona Massey, Alan Ladd, Abbott and Costello, Perry Como, Martha Vickers, Kathryn Grayson and Natalie Wood.

The Von Hoenigsbergs' 3½-year-old son with his father's first name, is Kurt Bela. Mrs. Von Hoenigsberg, in contrast to her husband's continental background, is a native of Trenton, and a graduate of Hamilton High School. She used to be secretary for the Acme Sales Co., a storm window firm in Trenton.

Tuberculosis No Longer

some of every American's tax dollars.

The TB fight really began on that other March 24 in 1882, when Robert Koch, a great German bacteriologist, announced to the world that he had identified the specific germ that rotted out lungs and other body organs.

Early in 1952, it looked as if the fight might be over. A research team at New York's Seaview Hospital had tried two new drugs on 92 "hopeless" TB patients. They were emaciated, gaunt, wasted, feverish. All other treatment had failed.

By February, most of the western world knew what had happened. The patients gained weight at a fantastic rate. Their fevers dropped or disappeared.

Their coughs eased and their strength returned. One in every five had negative sputum—the TB germs were gone. Three in ten showed lung cavity improvement.

And some of the women patients—in undressable joy—danced a Charleston in the hospital ward when news photographers arrived. Today, just 13 months later, two of those women who danced are dead.

So are others among the original 92 patients. Some are back at home, living, normal, useful lives. And some are still in the hospital, still receiving isoniazid and still improving.

One Seaview specialist sums it up this way:

"Maybe the world is impatient for miracle drugs, but isoniazid isn't that kind of a miracle. It's just the best single weapon man has found against TB—not miraculous, but useful and even life-saving."

"Isoniazid was science's first Sunday punch. Take a look at the figures. TB is down—but it's not out."

In the U. S. deaths from tuberculosis dropped 27 per cent between 1949 and 1951. TB has skidded from 7th to 9th place among the killing diseases, though it is still the first cause of death among people from 15 to 34.

It now infects more than a million U. S. residents—and 150,000 of the victims don't know they have it and quite possibly are infecting others. Despite the lowered death rate, the number of new cases reported each year is almost as high as it was 26 years ago.

On the other hand, a virtual revolution in TB treatment may be in the making. Doctors, working at the careful pace of science, have only begun to explore isoniazid's possibilities. Research has continued—and in the past year, two new drugs were quietly added to the list of effective anti-TB agents. There will be more.

Dr. Marcus D. Kogel, Commissioner of New York hospitals and a sponsor of the original Seaview project, concluded recently:

"The TB organism is a shrewd and ancient foe of man and one would be rash indeed to think victory is an immediate prospect."

"But the possibility of victory is brighter than ever before in history."

(Tomorrow the isoniazid)
